Grandparents, You Can Be a Difference Maker!

Corinth DeMulling wanted to be baptized at age ten, but when she heard she would have to give a public testimony in front of the congregation, she was just too shy.

At the same time, her grandmother Sandi DeMulling relocated from Washington state to live nearer to her son and family in their Brookside neighborhood. Sandi attended a Bible study that fall which her daughter-in-law was co-leading, and during that study, Sandi came to understand Jesus loved her and wanted a personal relationship with her. She became a Christ-follower. She wanted to be baptized, and then it happened.

Sandi remembered her granddaughter Corinth's desire to be baptized too. She invited Corinth to join her in this step of obedience. Corinth agreed!

Hallelujah! What a joy-filled, special moment it was, celebrated by the DeMulling family across the generations. God is so good!
