"Being intentional is something all grandparents can do. We can be intentional if we have an imperfect family (all of us do) or an imperfect past (true of all of us as well). Brand-new grandparents can be intentional; so can great-grandparents. Single grandmas and step-grandparents, grandparents who have grandkids every day, and those who never see their grandkids – all can be intentional. It just looks different according to each situation".

Barb Lorenz, Legacy Coalition
